INCORPORATED IN ENGLAND

Michael James Stewart

Michael James Stewart OBE is an English former cricketer, coach and administrator. A right-handed batsman, Micky served as England vice-captain in India in 1963-64. He made eight Test appearances scoring two half-centuries. His domestic career for Surrey spanned eighteen years, in which he scored over 26,000 first class runs with forty-nine centuries. He made a century on debut for his county, against Pakistan, and went on to break the then-world record number of catches in a match in 1957 with his strong fielding. He captained Surrey between 1963 and 1972, winning the County Championship in 1971. After retiring, he became a manager at the club and later for England until 1992. He then worked for the ECB until 1997.

Stewart was awarded the OBE in 1998 for services to cricket. Micky was also a footballer, playing outside right for the amateur side Corinthian-Casuals before turning professional and joining Charlton Athletic.

Ken Schofield

Executive Director of the European Golf Tour from 1975 to 2004. Appointed CBE in the 1996 Birthday Honours. Awarded the Ambassador of Golf Award by the PGA Tour in 2006 and was inducted into the World Golf Hall of Fame in 2013.

His sporting interests include football and cricket. In 2007 he was appointed to chair an ECB committee to review why the previous winter's Ashes tour of Australia by the England cricket team had been a failure. This became known as The Schofield Report. The ECB subsequently endorsed 17 of the committee's 19 recommendations.
